Brooklyn Economic Development Commission

What Does Brooklyn EDC Needs?

- Paid Economic Development Coordinator (Even if part time at first) when it is economically feasible.
- Communication of inquiries being made to the down from potential business looking to come into the town (that are not confidential) so that we can create a system of follow up.
- In addition the EDC would like to compile an inventory of available buildings and developable land throughout the town. An assembly of a GIS database would be ideal for this application. This inventory would allow potential developers and real estate professionals a source of valuable information for their use in determining the establishment of potential businesses in the Town.
- Liaison with Planning and Zoning regarding business development to enhance communications and follow up.
- Receive help from Selectmen shaping the mission of the EDC so that it is not at odds with the mission of the town.
